We investigated the feasibility of a semiautomatic method of detecting oscillatory respiratory movements during positive pressure ventilation by the evaluation of the correlation between negative intrathoracic pressure (ITP) and the simultaneously measured ITP in frequency domain (TD-ITP). TD-ITP was measured by a fast Fourier transform (FFT) algorithm in 26 patients during spontaneous breathing and during positive pressure ventilation with varying inspiratory positive airway pressure (P = 15-25 cm H2O) and positive end-expiratory pressure. Cross-correlation between TD-ITP and ITP was determined for every respiratory cycle. Cross-correlation in frequency domain between TD-ITP and ITP was similar during spontaneous breathing, inspiratory positive pressure and positive end-expiratory pressure without and with PEEP up to 21 cm H2O. Cross-correlation in frequency domain decreased with increasing PEEP. Positive cross-correlation in frequency domain between TD-ITP and ITP suggests a physiologic coupling of oscillations of ITP and TD-ITP-Q. Using jQuery and jQueryUI to control animating custom elements I created a custom border element that I would like to animate in and out. The animation itself uses the jQuery UI core animation method. I am having some trouble making the animation a class (for future control, since I plan to scale it into a button and repeat it back and forth with jQueryUI toggleClass method to create a virtual toggle switch. Currently I have a bunch of classes for each state to be toggled, so that's why it's the core animation method). The problem is that to add a class, I need to toggle $(selector). So if I have this HTML: If I want to apply the animation to the class "border", and if I make a change to the definition of the element after the animation was created, and then try to toggling it, I don't see any change. I know this is because the animation is attached
