Photoshop's Core Features The three main tools within the Photoshop program are the Transform tool, the Layers palette, and the Channels palette. The three main tools within the Photoshop program are the Transform tool, the Layers palette, and the Channels palette. To start, you want to learn all about your layers. The Layers Palette The Layers palette can be found at the top of the Photoshop workspace. It is used to bring together layers that work together, display various layers, or create them. The Layers palette is the most common way to organize layers in Photoshop. A new Layer can also be created by clicking the New Layer icon at the bottom left of the window or by selecting the Merge tool and using the layer palette to find a layer to merge it with. The Layers palette: The Layers palette is the biggest icon in the workspace. The top two buttons are used to create new layers. The button next to it is used to merge layers. It can also be used to make a selection from the layer in the Layers palette. And the button at the bottom left takes the user to the layers (most people only use this to get to the layers, and then to move around in the layers). The Layers palette allows you to add layers to the final photo. You can move, manipulate, cut, copy, and paste layers here. Once a layer is created in the Layers palette it will appear in the Layers panel. This allows users to organize, manipulate, copy, and paste layers in the workspace. If a layer is visible in the Layers panel, it is also active. To bring a layer out of the Layers palette and into the Layers panel: There are three ways to do this. If the Layers palette has a symbol on the top right that says "Create a new layer", then click that to create a new layer. If there is an arrow on the bottom left, click that to create a new layer. If there is an eye icon to the left of the Layers palette, click that to create a new layer. The Layers panel is located at the bottom of the screen. It contains all of your layers, as well as any active layers in the workspace

The Code Red 2005 The Code Red 2005 was a professional wrestling event produced by Extreme Championship Wrestling (ECW) that took place on May 25, 2005 at the Eastern Sports and Leisure Centre in Queens, New York. It was the eleventh annual event produced by ECW. The event featured eight professional wrestling matches, including one six-man match. The event featured several WWE employees in guest appearances. The event was the first time in ECW's history that three wrestlers wrestled for the ECW World Heavyweight Championship, and the first time that the title changed hands at an ECW event since The Main Event II in November 2002. The event was also the final televised appearance of Hardcore Holly in ECW, as he was released by WWE in July 2005. Storylines The event featured eight professional wrestling matches with different wrestlers involved in pre-existing scripted feuds, plots and storylines. Wrestlers were portrayed as either villains or heroes as they followed a series of tension-building events, which culminated in a wrestling match or series of matches. Storylines between the characters played out on ECW on Spike TV and later the ECW on Sci-Fi Channel. Event Ricky Santana, who was at ringside working as a referee, turned on ECW World Heavyweight Champion Tommy Dreamer by executing him with the Glam Slam for the ECW World Heavyweight Championship. As Santana was posing for pictures with other ECW wrestlers, security walked over to him and asked for his camera. Santana said that he forgot it at home and left with the security guard for the arena. Moments later, Santana returned with other wrestlers to the ring, taking the camera from the guard. During a break in action, the ECW on Sci-Fi Channel showed footage from the ECW Unreleased tape from March 16, 2005, which showed that Dreamer had been involved in a feud with Tommy Gunn in which Gunn had almost been awarded the ECW World Heavyweight Championship. Dreamer was then shown wrestling with various ECW wrestlers, including Sandman, Raven and Tazz, before he slammed Raven through a table and pinned him to win the ECW World Heavyweight Championship at Hardcore Heaven. After the match, Sandman grabbed a microphone and said, "I'm the champion, and everybody else can kiss my ass." In the following weeks, Sandman feuded with Raven for the ECW World Heavyweight Championship. Two weeks later, Raven cost Sandman the ECW World
