I want the URL to look like this: In my logout handler, I'm doing this: `if (event.request.post) { def session = springSecurityService.getSession() session.invalidate() httpUtils.redirectTo(defaultScope, "index") }` The defaultScope method is a controller method that always redirects the user to a specified page. I have a method inside the defaultScope controller method that handles the logout request. How do I pass the "action" parameter with it? I've tried appending?action=accept but that doesn't seem to work. I think this is more of a GSP question than a Grails question, but I've never worked with GSP and this was all I found on Google. A: Take a look at the function that is used to display the logout page. / * Displays the logout page * * @param {org.springframework.security.core.context.SecurityContextHolder} securityContextHolder * @return {String} */ public String logout(SecurityContextHolder securityContextHolder) { def request = controller.convertRequestToHttp(servletRequest) if (request.requestURI) { def params = request.requestURI.decodeUnparsedQueryString() if (!params) { def 1d6a3396d6
