- Export to high resolution PNG and FLA (Flex), SVGs (Web2.0), and PNG and FLA (iTunes). - Export project to DVD for easy backup and distribution. - Export to SWF for Flash and Mobile/Web. - Export to away3D Animators (For Flash and HTML5, see below) - Export to Away3D (Flash 5 and above). - Export in 2D, 3D (with shadows), and Normalmap textures. - Exporting in 32-bit allows for 16 million more polygons. - Export by folder, so you may export the same scene from multiple projects at once. - Export as linked objects in Flash/HTML5, or just export the content of the objects. - Export to SVG for further editing. - Export to Flash 3D Exporter, version 9.3 or later required for some complex scenes and AS3 features. - Comes with the full license. This project includes a premium plugin to the popular WebGL rendering engine Away3D. What this plugin does is allows your to export a scene as a WebGL project. What this does is allows you to export your web browser and flash application project to away3D, and then view and edit your project in 3D. It is probably the most powerful feature of Prefab3D. With a few clicks you can view and manipulate your scene in any browser or flash application - you can even download your projects into your computer for editing at any time. Why Prefab3D is a good plugin to Away3D: - * Great for designers as it is an easy way to view and manipulate your project. - * Very useful for modelers to test their scenes in 3D - * Even useful for flash developers to debug their projects - * Very simple to install. At Prefab3D we understand that the use of multi-threaded rendering is often required in advanced rendering projects. Flash3D is based on GDI+. With GDI+ you can do many things for rendering faster. For example you can have up to four renderings happening at the same time. The reason Prefab3D offers multi-threading is that sometimes Flash/HTML 5 players don't support GDI+. So you must use multi-threaded rendering to get the best speed for your project. What you will get from Prefab3D

The best way to learn about the tool is to use it. This is especially true for designers, artists and engineers who want to place models in Flash 3D and create animations or game levels. If you want to work with a model created in another application, all you have to do is export it in Away3D format and place it in your Flash 3D world.
