Chords are a key to playing any song, and playing all the notes of a song on piano can be a daunting task. With our songs and songs lists databases you can simply browse the database and play chords to the songs without any stress. Import any musical instrument, chord chart, score database, song list or pitch file to the application. You can browse the database using our song list visualizer, play any song using the song list selector or even better we also support saving and editing of the chord charts. You can also transpose, play tracks, and loop songs while you play them. You can use the pitch tracker so that you can play while the notes are shown on the screen. You can also combine pitch tracker with playback speed control. You can use the onscreen metronome to play in time to the song or in sync with the pitch tracker or playback speed. It has a very detailed and user friendly interface. You can play multiple songs at once with the Time Display, play chords for each individual song using the chord selector, or you can play in time. There are more than 60 different chords including Am, Am7, Bm, Bm7, Cm, Cm7, etc. For each chord there is a Midi library that you can choose from. Nowadays it is very common to use notes and chord numbers to tell the difference between notes, chords, and rests or notes. For example in an F major key you can play a 5th, 3rd, or a major note. So, by selecting the notes and chords in the database you can use the selection tool for more than selecting chords. The player can toggle the pattern type on and off to use either the notes and chords, or simply the chords only. We can now make you able to browse the database quickly with our Score Chart Product Key.
