The Nero DiscSpeed Product Key benchmark is included in Nero Burning ROM 12. The benchmark includes both CD and DVD drives. The disc benchmark tests each drive's performance at a specified speed (e.g. 6x). The benchmark includes eight different tests. 1. Disc spin-up and spindown test: The disc is loaded into the drive and then it is removed. The whole process is repeated eight times. 2. Read / write test: The performance of the drive is measured when writing or reading data. 3. Write quality test: The write quality of the drive is tested by writing a 3.5 G byte file. The read speed is compared to the write speed. The write quality is also compared to a burn quality test. 4. DAE speed test: The transfer rate of the drive is tested by reading a preformatted MPEG file and by reading an ISO 9660 formatted file. 5. High speed CD-R test: The performance of the drive is measured when recording at various data rates. 6. CD-R seek times: CD-R drives can be slow when accessing different areas of the disc. This test checks the seek time of the drive. 7. CD-RW seek times: CD-RW drives can be slow when accessing different areas of the disc. This test checks the seek time of the drive. 8. Spin-up and spindown test: The preformatted file is checked at various speeds, from 2x to 6x. This test checks the spin-up and spindown time of the drive. 9. Load and eject times: The time required for loading and unloading a CD or DVD drive is measured. 10. Playback test: The performance of the drive is measured when playing an audio CD. Benchmark Nero DiscSpeed Full Crack 8x: This test measures the performance of the disc drive at 8x. This test includes four tests. 1. Disc spin-up and spindown test: The disc is loaded into the drive and then it is removed. The whole process is repeated eight times. 2. Read / write test: The performance of the drive is measured when writing or reading data. 3. Write quality test: The write quality of the drive is tested by writing a 3.5 G byte file. The read speed is compared to the write speed. The write quality is also compared to a burn quality test. 4. DAE speed test: The transfer rate of Nero DiscSpeed is a benchmarking software solution designed to help you find out the real abilities of your CD-ROM or DVD drive, conduct a series of tests to reveal CPU usage and transfer rate. The software comes, in fact, with many more tests included in the package, such as seek times, burst rate, DAE quality, spinup and spindown time, load and eject times. You can check out the progress and results of the benchmark in real-time thanks to the graph displayed in the main window of the program. The user has the option to either perform them individually or all at the same time, in which case Nero DiscSpeed will need a couple more minutes to complete the tests. If no special knowledge is required to use the application, when it comes to understanding the results and intricacies of each benchmark, things become a bit more complicated because there are a lot of technicalities involved. After we put it to the test we couldn't help but conclude that it works quite impressive but, at the end of the day, it isn't a must have tool. Surely, Nero DiscSpeed can be pretty handy when you want to know whether a disc will give you errors or not when trying to burn a CD or check how fast your drive really is. This software is undoubtedly one of the best tools in its category and the information it provides is very accurate.
