* There is a Windows or Mac version of Photoshop that costs $100. You can get a course in Photoshop Elements (`www.photoshop.com`) that comes with the program for $89. * Photoshop Pro $600 is the most expensive version that has multitouch, 32-bit precision, file type conversion, and a variety of enhancements for color conversion and image enhancements (like sharpening and noise reduction) for adjusting images. The Pro version also has some specialty Photoshop tools. * Photoshop Elements ($100) offers some limited editing tools, such as the ability to adjust the brightness and contrast of an image. This version does not have multitouch. * Photoshop Elements (`www.adobe.com/photoshop`) is less expensive than Photoshop Elements (`www.adobe.com/products/photoshop`) and offers limited image editing tools. * Photoshop ($500) includes many of the features of other versions but has a more robust and complex editing system. Often, after a new home has been built, electricians find that the electrical wiring in the wall voids around the junction box are inadequate. Insufficient wiring can lead to a damaged junction box in which case, the electrical system must be repaired. This is time consuming and can be expensive. A conventional junction box on a wall has a "chase" that is connected to the electrical outlet of the electrician who is installing the box. The chase is held to the wall by screws and carries electrical conduits, switches and other electrical devices to which it is attached. The chase itself is attached to the surface of the wall by mounting screws. There are drawbacks, however, with conventional wall junction boxes. For example, mounting the chase to the wall by screws can be difficult, especially if the wall has non-flat surfaces.from rpython.jit.backend.zarch.test.support import get_backend def test_check_exc(): check_exception_wrapper() def check_exception_wrapper(): jit_backend = get_backend() for exc in ('ZeroDivisionError', 'OverflowError', 'ValueError'): with jit_backend.set_nested(): try: jit_backend.check_exception_wrapper(exc) except: pass try: jit_backend.check_exception_wrapper(exc, return_type=None) except: pass Future of Showmanship The Future of Showmanship Just as fine arts are in decline all over the world, so is the showmanship of the world's nations. 320 N.W.2d 423 (1982) 212 Neb. 500 Sharon SOARES, Appellant, v. Dennis L. SOARES, Appellee. No. 44131. Supreme Court of Nebraska. March 10, 1982. John E. Corbic, Lincoln, for appellant. *424 Donald W. Kleine, Lincoln, for appellee. Before KRIVOSHA, C. J., BOSLAUGH, McCOWN, CLINTON, BRODKEY, WHITE, and HASTINGS, JJ. BRODKEY, Justice. Sharon Soares appeals from a modification of the decree of dissolution of her marriage with Dennis L. Soares, which dissolved their marriage. The decree entered on March 27, 1981, granted Sharon a property settlement in lieu of an alimony award, and on July 15, 1981, the trial court amended the decree to terminate the property settlement, in favor of an alimony award. Sharon appeals from both the amendment of the decree and the termination of the property settlement provision. Sharon and Dennis were married on February 10, 1978, and divorced on March 27, 1981. Sharon was given custody of the couple's two minor children, and Dennis was ordered to pay child support. An agreement, entered into by the parties, provided that Dennis would pay Sharon for her support "an amount equal to one-half (½) of her net earnings from all sources, after deduction of taxes, federal income taxes, and state income taxes, for a period of one year prior to date of decree of divorce." The evidence, adduced at trial, showed that Sharon had been employed by Omni Corporation since November 16, 1979, earning $1,296 per month, her regular earnings of $1,276 being supplemented by monthly fringe benefits of $32. Sharon's testimony as to her intended earnings in the coming year was as follows: She had been a teacher's aide in the autumn of 1979 and was expecting, due to a baby, to be pregnant in the spring of 1980. She was expecting to be back to work in May of 1980, but was able to go back to work in July, 1980, after the birth of her child. She did not anticipate being back to work, however, until sometime in January of 1981, when her child would be 2 years old. The evidence also established that prior to the divorce, Dennis had been steadily employed at
