In-game Physics: The in-game physics engine is developed to address the need for detailed control and individual player movements, such as the physical elements of tackling, scoring, catching, and passing. HyperMotion Technology (RPT) - In-game Physics, Player Trajectory, & Enhanced Player Model: Players' movements are more realistic due to the use of Dynamic Real Player Motion Technology (RPT). Each movement of the ball affects the trajectory of the player, and now the player's movements feel more natural and physically balanced. FIFA 22 introduces a new ball physics engine designed to improve ball control, and improve ball movements in all directions. In some cases,
