Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a head slider. More particularly, the present invention relates to a head slider for use in a small-size or short-wavelength optical pickup device or an optical disk apparatus. 2. Description of the Related Art A head slider for use in an optical pickup device which is accommodated in an optical disk apparatus is required to have high precision and a small tolerance. Thus, there has been a demand for a head slider having a low stiffness and a high sensitivity. In view of the above, Japanese Unexamined Patent Application Publication No. 2006-327765 (Patent Document 1) proposes a head slider including a central part having a cantilever structure with a small stiffness and a raised part provided on a tip of the cantilever and having an elastic layer, a magnet, and a voice coil fixed to a lower surface of the raised part. [Patent Document 1] Japanese Unexamined Patent Application Publication No. 2006-327765 In order to realize a stable operation of the head slider, it is desired to reduce a high-frequency damping loss caused by an air flow near a head surface and a mechanical loss caused by a spring structure of the head slider. In order to reduce such mechanical loss, the head slider is generally made of a single board or a single plate to which a support member is adhered. Alternatively, the head slider has multiple layers. More specifically, the head slider is configured so that a support part is sandwiched between the central part and the raised part, and is fixed to one surface of the central part or the raised part. According to the head slider configured in this

Q: Variable with same name in controller and model

Laravel5 I am using Eloquent Laravel5 for data fetching from MySQL. And one of the function is using `$user = Auth::user();` on the model to get the logged in user, the id of the user. How do I do the same in the controller? In the model, I have got the function to get the id of the user from the DB. Then I am calling this function in another function to access all the users details. But how do I get the `user_id` in the controller? There can't be two variables with the same name.

User model: public function `getCurrentUser() { return $this->user_id; }`

Controller: `$users = $this->model->getAllUsers();`
`$user = Auth::user();` foreach(`$users` as `$user`) {
`$user_id = $user->getCurrentUser();` } How do I store the `user_id` in the user model in the same `user_id` function without getting an error saying that it is an undefined variable? I need help with this. Thanks in advance.

A: Change `getCurrentUser()` to something like: public function `getCurrentUser() { return Auth::user()->id; }` This will give you the ID of the currently authenticated user. If you want the id of a model, then use `getAttribute('id')`. There is also the `user()->id` in the constructor which does exactly the same thing. Note: If you want to access $
